

Fourth Annual New Zealand Criminology Symposium

Public Criminology in New Zealand: Opportunities, Challenges, Futures

The Institute of Criminology at Victoria University of Wellington is hosting the Fourth Annual New Zealand Criminology Symposium on Friday 17th February.

Panel discussions among prominent invited speakers will be organised around themes including how academic criminology engages with criminal justice institutions, public policy, community groups, and the media. The symposium will be closed with a convivial drinks reception on the Friday evening.

There is a similarly themed postgraduate conference for PhD and Masters students the day before this symposium. Students are very welcome to attend both.

To register for this conference, please visit Eventbrite:
<https://www.eventbrite.co.nz/e/fourth-annual-new-zealand-criminology-symposium-tickets-28512205775>.

This event is free to attend.

DATE

17 February 2017

LOCATION

Council Chambers, Hunter Building, Victoria University of Wellington, Kelburn Campus, Wellington 6012

*For enquiries please contact:
Prof Simon Mackenzie at Simon.Mackenzie@vuw.ac.nz*

This event is co-sponsored by the Australian and New Zealand Society of Criminology and Victoria University of Wellington.

