

SEMINAR: PUBLIC TRUST IN SOCIAL MEDIA

Social Sciences Week 2019

Social media are now firmly embedded in the daily lives of many people, as channels for connection, as sources of news and information, and as archives of personal memories.

At the same time, public trust in social media companies has plummeted in the wake of data breaches and scandals about how our personal data is being used to profile us.

How do we reconcile our reliance on social media with our distrust? How might the governance of social media platforms change in the future? Can social media play a role in a better future for our world?

This event will explore these questions and more. Come and join us for an open dialogue led by a panel of world-leading researchers studying the impacts of social media.

PANEL MEMBERS

Asher Flynn: Associate Professor, Criminology

Mark Andrejevic: Professor, Media Film and Journalism

Akane Kanai: Lecturer, Media and Communication Studies

Steven Roberts: Associate Professor, Sociology

EVENT DETAILS

DATE

Tuesday 10 September 2019

TIME

5.30pm - 7.00pm

VENUE

Level 7, Seminar rooms 2 and 3
Monash Conference Centre
30 Collins Street
Melbourne, VIC, 3000

REGISTER

<https://bit.ly/2Kj83Gs>

CONTACT

The School of Social Sciences:
e: arts.admin.soss@monash.edu